

Truckers NEED satellite radio weather updates LONG BEFORE coming into an area or town. They NEED traffic conditions VERY LONG BEFORE coming into an area or a town. With all the pressure on truckers to help with road safety, why would a few pipsqueaks want to endanger the traveling public over their pathetic lack of competitiveness, beyond robbing others of what brings them a way to stay awake and aware, as well as entertained in a way the squeaks themselves missed the boat on, but can still catch on. AND with the current concerns regarding terrorism, the intelligent, alert trucker can foresee possibilities that could have profound national effects resulting from the cumulative information available through XM Radio. LONG LIVE XM Radio!!!!
